

The Max-A-Form® forming system can support concrete loads over long spans without supplemental shoring. It can be used for gang-forming walls, large columns, and bridge piers. Large productivity increases over hand forming are possible, but needed workroom must be available and required hoisting equipment planned. Photo courtesy: Symons.